

The Work

McMurry treats every square inch of canvas as an individual abstract painting, creating an overall effect both layered and symmetrical. Alive with energy and dynamic perspectives, her paintings change the way we view landscapes. We are invited into a natural world in which vast open spaces and balanced colors offer harmony and a sense of freedom.

McMurry's technique and style are intimately tied to a West Texas childhood of classical music and science training. The study of violin influences her varied, impressionistic brushwork, which maintains serenity from a distance and stirs with strength and passion at close range. In her paintings McMurry's ultimate goal is to invite the viewer to understand that life's dynamic complexities finally reveal its balance and beauty.
